

SHIPWRECK

“Sink in the character and save yourself from the sinking ship”

Imagine you are stuck on a sinking ship. The captain has already saved his life but he has an extra life jacket.

Do you think you have what it takes to persuade the captain to offer you the last life-jacket and save your life?

The event has 3 interesting rounds. Before the beginning of these main rounds, all the participants will be assigned a famous personality be it an actor, sportsperson or politician.

Once everyone is assigned a personality, they will be given a preparation time of 10 minutes. Personalities would be assigned on random basis.

Round 1 (Board the Ship) - The Bonus Round where the top 3 scorers will be given a game-changing advantage (which will be disclosed later). In this round, every participant is given 1 minute to make an opening statement and justify why they deserve the last life jacket.

Upon the end of first round, all the participants will be divided into groups of 5 members each. Groups will be formed on random basis.

Round 2 (Ahoy!! Captain) - Every participant will be getting 2.5 minutes to make an appeal to the Captain.

In this round, participants can not only talk about their assigned characters but also make comments about why the other characters in their respective group do not deserve the last life jacket. Cross questioning is allowed in this round.

After the conclusion of first 2 rounds, the top 5 scorers will move onto the final round.

Round 3 (Escape the titanic) – the 5 participants who make it to this round will battle it out in the final arena. In this round, all the participants will be assigned new personalities. Your scores from previous rounds will not matter here, you will be judged on your performance in this round only.
